

ODNI Review Group Comments

Roberta M.

The United States needs to cease the mass surveillance of its citizens, including the collection and scanning of metadata. There needs to be probable cause before surveillance is put in place on particular, suspected individuals. Only then can privacy, civil liberties, and the public trust be protected. We cannot be secure in our persons while under government surveillance. The current practices thus undermine the very principle they are trying to support.