Aviation Surveillance Brief
Staff for Senate Judiciary Committee
June 17, 2015

CIRG

- We’re here to address the questions posed in letters from Senators Grassley and Franken, as result of the recent AP article regarding FBI aerial surveillance activity.

- Introductions:
  - Aviation Program and Surveillance Operations: Assistant Director Jim Yacone
  - Operations Technology: Assistant Director Steve Richardson
  - Aviation Program Manager, Assistant Section Chief
  - Operations Technology Program Manager
  - Attorney for Operations Technology
  - Congressional Liaison
  - Congressional Liaison-Appropriations

- The FBI's aviation program is not secret; specific aircraft and their capabilities are protected for operational security purposes. FBI routinely uses aviation assets in support of predicated investigations targeting specific individuals (and has for over 30 years). The aircraft are not equipped, designed, or used for bulk collection activities or mass surveillance. The FBI uses all tools and equipment, and conducts all investigations, in accordance with the Attorney General Guidelines and the FBI's Domestic Investigations and Operations Guide (DIOG).
  - FBI registers planes covertly to protect the assets and the personnel (similar to unmarked police cruiser)

- FBI’s Aviation Program:

- Approvals/Authorities:
  - Requests for FBI surveillance are initiated for active investigations in our Field Offices and approved by GS 15 ASAC.
o All requests are conducted in full compliance with AG guidelines and the FBI’s DIOG.
  o DIOG requires all airborne video be recorded and entered into the FBI’s ESLUR storage system. Video is retained as evidence associated with a specific case and disposed of in accordance with FBI ELSUR policy. (10 years after case closes- ELSUR destroyed.)

• Physical surveillance is the deliberate observation of persons, places, or events, on either a limited or continuous basis, in areas where there is limited reasonable expectation of privacy.
  o FBI does not engage in routine ‘patrols’ or other widespread collection from the air
  o Baltimore and Ferguson – LE request to fill a capability and capacity gap, also to protect innocent bystanders (FBI mission balances civil liberties, public safety and national security.)

• FBI uses its aircraft as a force multiplier to FBI personnel conducting investigations – aircraft provides situational awareness not otherwise apparent from the ground.
  o Aircraft can advise ground personnel of upcoming traffic jams for investigative personnel conducting surveillance from the ground.
  o Aircraft can maintain o Aircraft are equipped for real time video downlink. This allows image being seen in the aircraft to be viewed by investigators, a tactical team, or in an FBI command post. This is a critical capability when providing situation awareness to those who need it.

• No FBI aircraft are permanently equipped with any cell phone tracking or site simulator equipment.
  o Use of this technology on airborne platforms is extremely rare
  o When used, it is with legal authority

OTD/OGC
FYI. I expect these requests to go up as field offices and CID learn of the airborne option.

Yes, thanks.
Let me know what you think,

Thanks

Just checking in. I am having a difficult time finding the bottom of my inbox so I apologize if you have answered the below. Do we have any forward progress?

To follow-up on our meeting from a few weeks ago, were you able to develop a proof of concept test and timeline for--- I would like to make sure this moves forward and we can implement a test scenario for them in the near future.

Thanks,

for your review and tweaking, here’s the response document to the June 5 letter from certain House Representatives. It’s similar to the June 3 House letter and corresponding FBI response captured in I suggest this latest response be added to that existing task.

Classification: UNCLASSIFIED

TRANSITORY RECORD

Hello, there was an additional letter sent from the House of Representatives with specific questions concerning the Aviation program, although it is focused solely on the use of airborne cell simulator technology. The signatories to this letter will be invited to the July 6th briefing as well and a copy is attached.

Office of Congressional Affairs
Hello - House Judiciary Committee staff briefing on the aviation program and cell site simulators will now be on July 6th at 1:00 pm. Please let me know if that presents any problems. Thanks.

Office of Congressional Affairs

Apologies, apparently I spoke to soon. Committee changed their mind and cannot do it the 26th now. Too many staffers will not be able to make it that late in the day. Congress is on recess the following week so a lot of people will be out. Congress is not back in session until July 6th so that is the next possible day we can do it.

If the 6th does not work we can try to schedule for the 13th. Please advise on availability, thanks.
Committee can do 3:30 on June 26th. I will confirm with them early this afternoon so please let me know if that date/time does not work for some reason.

is an FBI detailee to the Judiciary Committee and will attend the briefing.

SSA Office of Congressional Affairs
If possible can we do this on the first date suggested June 26th, but later in the day—anytime 3:30 p.m. or later. I emailed on the low-side and he advised that he would be available at 3:30 that day or later. Let us know...Again

Thanks for whatever you can arrange soonest!!

June 5, 2015

Director James B. Comey
Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation
Federal Bureau of Investigation Headquarters
935 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20535

Dear Director Comey,

On June 2, 2015, the Associated Press (AP) reported (article attached) that the FBI has been operating a “small air force...carrying video and, at times, cellphone surveillance technology—all hidden behind fictitious companies that are fronts for the government.” In fact, the report states that in a span of 30 days, the FBI flew throughout 11 states, many in heavily populated urban areas, such as Southern California, the Midwest, and the Northeast.

We realize that the FBI routinely assists local law enforcement authorities in surveillance for ongoing investigations and at the request of the local law enforcement agency. However, it appears that many of the aerial surveillance operations go beyond local law enforcement and in fact, use cellphone data capture devices to monitor potential suspects. The article states that the electronic signals collection technology, used by the FBI, would set up “cell-site simulators.” As such, during the course of an investigation, the technology could be used to capture cellphone information of individuals not suspected of a crime. Therefore, we request the following information:

- To the extent possible, we request you provide the number of incidences that this technology has been used during aerial surveillance operations.

- To the extent possible, we request the number of incidences this technology was authorized by a search warrant.

- To the extent possible, we request the legal approval process in which instances a search warrant didn’t authorize the use of cell-site simulators.
• To the extent possible, we request you provide the number of incidences in which individuals not suspected of a crime had their cellphone data captured during aerial surveillance operations.

• To the extent possible, we request the role the FBI’s Office of Integrity and Compliance has in creating the policy on the usage of such technology.

We understand the important role the FBI has in protecting our country, and the sensitive nature your work entails. However, as Members of Congress, it is our duty to address any concerns that have been raised by the public regarding this program. In doing so, we would like to continue this dialogue with your office and ask you promptly respond to our requests.

FBI behind mysterious surveillance aircraft over US cities

By JACK GILLUM, EILEEN SULLIVAN and ERIC TUCKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scores of low-flying planes circling American cities are part of a civilian air force operated by the FBI and obscured behind fictitious companies, The Associated Press has learned.

The AP traced at least 50 aircraft back to the FBI, and identified more than 100 flights in 11 states over a 30-day period since late April, orbiting both major cities and rural areas. At least 115 planes, including 90 Cessna aircraft, were mentioned in a federal budget document from 2009.

For decades, the planes have provided support to FBI surveillance operations on the ground. But now the aircraft are equipped with high-tech cameras, and in rare circumstances, technology capable of tracking thousands of cellphones, raising questions about how these surveillance flights affect Americans' privacy.

"It's important that federal law enforcement personnel have the tools they need to find and catch criminals," said Charles Grassley, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "But whenever an operation may also monitor the activities of Americans who are not the intended target, we must make darn sure that safeguards are in place to protect the civil liberties of innocent Americans."

The FBI says the planes are not equipped or used for bulk collection activities or mass surveillance. The surveillance equipment is used for ongoing investigations, the FBI says, generally without a judge's approval.

The FBI confirmed for the first time the wide-scale use of the aircraft, which the AP traced to at least 13 fake companies, such as FVX Research, KQM Aviation, NBR Aviation and PXW Services.
"The FBI's aviation program is not secret," spokesman Christopher Allen said in a statement. "Specific aircraft and their capabilities are protected for operational security purposes."

The front companies are used to protect the safety of the pilots, the agency said. That setup also shields the identity of the aircraft so that suspects on the ground don't know they're being followed.

The FBI is not the only federal law enforcement agency to take such measures.

The Drug Enforcement Administration has its own planes, also registered to fake companies, according to a 2011 Justice Department inspector general report. At the time, the DEA had 92 aircraft in its fleet. And since 2007, the U.S. Marshals Service has operated an aerial surveillance program with its own fleet equipped with technology that can capture data from thousands of cellphones, the Wall Street Journal reported last year.

In the FBI’s case, one of its fake companies shares a post office box with the Justice Department, creating a link between the companies and the FBI through publicly available Federal Aviation Administration records.

Basic aspects of the FBI's program are withheld from the public in censored versions of official reports from the Justice Department's inspector general, and the FBI also has been careful not to reveal its surveillance flights in court documents. The agency will not say how many planes are currently in its fleet.

The planes are equipped with technology that can capture video of unrelated criminal activity on the ground that could be handed over to prosecutions. One of the planes, photographed in flight last week by the AP in northern Virginia, bristled with unusual antennas under its fuselage and a camera on its left side.

Some of the aircraft can also be equipped with technology that can identify thousands of people below through the cellphones they carry, even if they're not making a call or in public. Officials said that practice, which mimics cell towers and gets phones to reveal basic subscriber information, is used in only limited situations.

"These are not your grandparents' surveillance aircraft," said Jay Stanley, a senior policy analyst with the American Civil Liberties Union. Stanley said the flights are significant "if the federal government is maintaining a fleet of aircraft whose purpose is to circle over American cities, especially with the technology we know can be attached to those aircraft."
The Justice Department recently published a privacy policy for its agencies' use of drones and unmanned aircraft systems. But that policy does not apply to piloted aircraft. An FBI spokesman said the FBI's flights comply with agency rules.

Those rules, which are heavily redacted in publicly available documents, limit the types of equipment the agency can use, as well as the justifications and duration of the surveillance.

Evolving technology can record higher-quality video from long distances, even at night, and can capture certain identifying information from cellphones using a device known as a "cell-site simulator" — or Stingray, to use one of the product's brand names. These can trick pinpointed cellphones into revealing identification numbers of subscribers, including those not suspected of a crime.

The FBI has recently begun obtaining court orders to use this technology. Previously, the Obama administration had been directing local authorities through secret agreements not to reveal their own use of the devices, even encouraging prosecutors to drop cases rather than disclose the technology's use in open court.

Officials say cellphone surveillance from FBI aircraft was rarely used.

Details confirmed by the FBI about its air force track closely with published reports since at least 2003 that a government surveillance program might be behind suspicious-looking planes slowly circling neighborhoods.

One such plane was spotted during the recent disturbance in Baltimore that followed the death of 25-year-old Freddie Gray, who sustained grievous injuries while in police custody. In that instance, the FBI was helping local police with aerial support, which it occasionally does when asked. Those types of requests are reviewed by senior FBI officials.

During the past few weeks, the AP tracked planes from the FBI's fleet on more than 100 flights over at least 11 states plus the District of Columbia, most with Cessna 182T Skylane aircraft. These included parts of Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Houston, Minneapolis, Phoenix, Seattle and Southern California.

Some flights orbited large, enclosed buildings for extended periods where aerial photography would be less effective than electronic signals collection. Those included above Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and the Mall of America in Bloomington, Minnesota.

David Gomez, a former FBI agent who oversaw parts of the aviation surveillance program over the course of his career, said the FBI surveillance aircraft are used to assist surveillance on the ground. For example, if a plane is following a suspect in a vehicle, an FBI ground surveillance team can lag behind so as not to blow their cover, Gomez said.

After The Washington Post revealed flights by two planes circling over Baltimore in early May, the AP began analyzing detailed flight data and aircraft-ownership registrations that shared similar addresses and flight patterns. That review found that some FBI missions circled above at least 40,000 residents during a single flight over Anaheim, California, in late May, according to Census data and records provided by the website FlightRadar24.com.

Most flight patterns occurred in counter-clockwise orbits up to several miles wide and roughly one mile above the ground at slow speeds. A 2003 newsletter from the company FLIR Systems Inc., which makes camera technology such as seen on the planes, described flying slowly in left-handed patterns.

Gomez said the aircraft circle to the left because the pilot sits on the left side. He said different flight formations are used depending on circumstances on the ground, such as whether a suspect is on the move.

The FBI asked the AP not to disclose the names of the fake companies it uncovered, saying that would saddle taxpayers with the expense of creating new cover companies to shield the government's involvement, and could endanger the planes and integrity of the surveillance missions. The AP declined the FBI's request because the companies' names — as well as common addresses linked to the Justice Department — are listed on public documents and in government databases.

Recently, independent journalists and websites have cited companies traced to post office boxes in Virginia, including one shared with the Justice Department.

Included on most aircraft registrations is a mysterious name, Robert Lindley. He is listed as chief executive and has at least three distinct signatures among the companies. Two documents include a signature for Robert Taylor, which is strikingly similar to one of Lindley's three handwriting patterns.

The FBI would not say whether Lindley is a U.S. government employee. The AP unsuccessfully tried to reach Lindley at phone numbers registered to people of the same name in the Washington area.

Law enforcement officials said Justice Department lawyers approved the decision to create fictitious companies and that the Federal Aviation Administration was aware of the practice. The FBI has been doing this since at least the late 1980s, according to a 1990 report by the then-General Accounting Office.

Associated Press writers Sean Murphy in Oklahoma City; Joan Lowy and Ted Bridis in Washington; Randall Chase in Wilmington, Delaware; and news researchers Monika Mathur in Washington and Rhonda Shafner in New York contributed to this report.

Action Item from Aviation Briefing June 17, 2015

Senator Grassley’s staffer requested additional details on the procedures for altering a cell-site simulator to allow it to intercept and record any electronic communication. Since the depth and breadth of information for such a reply was not readily available, FBI personnel advised that they would communicate a response directly to the staffer, who was the only individual in the meeting that expressed a desire to review such data.

OTD response:

Drafted by SSA PM for 06/17/2015

OTD/TSS/TTU After Action Report (AAR) for Meeting with Senatorial Staff on Responses to June 3, 2015 Letter from Sen. Al Franken

FBI Personnel: AD Stephen Richardson, AD James Yacone, Staff Attorney SSA (SME for Cell Site Simulators [CSSs]), OCA: SSA

Unclassified Meeting:

FBI met with approximately 25 Senate staffers to discuss responses to Senator Franken letter, dated June 3, 2015. At the meeting, AD Yacone addressed responses to the letter dealing with the aviation program and technology aboard FBI’s planes. AD Richardson addressed issues regarding CSS devices, in particular airborne capabilities, deployments, and mission statistics. The Senate staffers were advised that there were a total of five CSS airborne missions.

The majority of questions were directed at AD Yacone regarding airborne missions and concerns regarding aerial surveillance directed at groups or individuals exercising 1st Amendment Rights. The staffers were informed that both FBI and USDOJ policy strictly prohibit investigative conduct and intelligence collection directed at individuals or groups who are exercising their 1st Amendment Rights. The staffers were also advised that FBI’s practices were in line with its policy. In addition, AD Yacone directly refuted allegations from recent articles on the usage of aviation assets to conduct the bulk collection of information on innocent citizens.

Additional questions were focused on the recent flight mission in Baltimore, MD that occurred during the protests regarding the death of Freddie Gray. Staffers were informed that the request for FBI aviation assets came from the City of Baltimore. They were also advised that the FBI’s aviation asset was directed over areas of apparent criminal activity, such as arson sites, and not at areas where protestors were gathering peacefully.

UNCLASSIFIED/LAW ENFORCEMENT SENSITIVE
After approximately 15 minutes, all questions regarding the FBI's aviation program and the CSS devices appeared to be satisfactorily answered with exception of one question from a member of Senator Grassley's staff.

Action Items:

TTU will begin collecting responsive information for Senator Grassley's staffer. The information will likely be designated as "Law Enforcement Sensitive". This information will be sent to OTD's Executive Management on 06/18/2015.

TRANSITORY RECORD
AD Richardson, DAD Burrell,
Here is the latest version for your approval. The red boxes indicate LES.

Classification: UNCLASSIFIED//LES
Latest from the front: [Redacted] have partnered and come up with an airborne capability (assisted technically by [Redacted], [Redacted], etc.) and have support by [Redacted]. They want an OTD commitment.

My perspective on this now is that we want to consider reasonable requirements, but OTD should not commit to this unless and until:
I approve. Nice work and team.

Here is a synopsis of what I have obtained so far. The caveat is that the airborne missions are not recorded in metrics. I also cannot locate any data in Sentinel and Therefore, the data I have is based upon an urgent email request that was sent out to the field. There may be additional missions that can be reported in the future, when all the respond (the email was sent 06/08/2015). Also, some of the missions might go back as far as when had tried to start a nascent aerial capability. At that time, CSS gear was sent to had gear, but they sent it back for lack of interest/usage. The POC for that program reached out specifically to those offices in addition to the wide email I sent. All offices reported back with the same stats as the ones emailed to me. There may also be airborne missions that involved that are no longer in the tech program or retired, so I cannot say for certain that the mission numbers are 100% accurate. So far, we have five airborne missions reported.
Since this information is going to AD Yacone soon, I thought you should be kept in the immediate loop, but the attached document has not received approval for release yet from UC and A/SC.<< File: Draft

From the message below, I am understanding that TTU is to provide a briefing to OTD/OGC and address the topics that ______ mentioned? I believe I can dispel most mis-conceptions and about the way it operates, which I believe may be driving some of ______ questions.

P.S. I'm on TDY next week, although can meet afterwards.

That would be great. Let's schedule something upon your return.
I would like to get on calendar an internal OTD meeting about Airborne. I would just like to have a “initial” meeting to communicate the scope of this effort, which may help drive our other meetings.

Perhaps a quick ½ hour discussion would suffice.

I’m available all of next week and week after (except 06/24). If you let us know a date/time that would work, we’ll send out the invite to get it on calendar.

Just wanted to check with you prior to engaging anyone about this. Should we schedule a meeting about this since [Redacted] was asking?

Perhaps a meeting to re-enforce that the same concepts are being used would alleviate concerns.

Hello, there was an additional letter sent from the House of Representatives with specific questions concerning the Aviation program, although it is focused solely on the use of airborne cell simulator technology. The signatories to this letter will be invited to the July 6th briefing as well and a copy is attached.

Classification: UNCLASSIFIED

Hello, House Judiciary Committee staff briefing on the aviation program and cell site simulators will now be on July 6th at 1:00 pm. Please let me know if that presents any problems. Thanks.
Apologies, apparently I spoke to soon. Committee changed their mind and cannot do it the 26th now. Too many staffers will not be able to make it that late in the day - Congress is on recess the following week so a lot of people will be out. Congress is not back in session until July 6th so that is the next possible day we can do it.

If the 6th does not work we can try to schedule for the 13th. Please advise on availability, thanks.

Committee can do 3:30 on June 26th. I will confirm with them early this afternoon so please let me know if that date/time does not work for some reason.

House Judiciary Committee staff have now asked for the same FBI Aviation briefing that many of you will be providing to Senate Judiciary Committee tomorrow, the 17th.

House staff are interested in receiving the briefing on Friday June 26th, preferably at 10:00am.

Please indicate soonest if you are available to brief on this date at that time. If not, we will ask committee to choose another date/time.

Thank you
