

Sweat the little things

In an ideal world, our kids would get to make the kinds of mistakes you learn from. But when you have diabetes, little mistakes can have big consequences, the kind that last for the rest of your life.

That's why we made SugarSafer Plus, a closed-loop artificial pancreas that combines a continuous glucose monitor and an insulin pump, with machine-learning smarts in between that keep your kids in the safe zone, even when they stop paying attention to what they eat. Even when they're asleep.

And because safety isn't just about blood sugar, SugarSafer Plus lets you know where your kids are and how much screen-time they're logging, which apps they're using, and alerts you when they go outside the invisible fences you use to set healthy boundaries for their wandering.
